

FASD United Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders (FASD) Resource Directory

February 2024

Search the FASD Resource Directory for FASD United affiliates, diagnostic services, support groups, prevention programs, and other resources.

Due to a lack of trained professionals and recognition of FASD it can be a challenge to quickly identify accessible FASD-informed services. If you do not know where to begin your search, please visit the FASD United Family Navigator and a specialist will help you. You also are encouraged to contact the FASD United affiliates near you, as they are often the most informed about state and regional resources.

*The FASD United Resource Directory is for information purposes only. The listing of any service or treatment organization, facility, or provider or any individual or advocate in this directory does not represent an endorsement by FASD United. <https://traumahealing.org/about-us/>

The human system is designed to operate in a gentle pendulation of arousal and calming. This balance can be disrupted by distressing experiences, by illnesses of the body, and by neurological differences, e.g., ADHD, Autism spectrum, FASD, TBI. I offer Therapy that restores the natural responses that were overwhelmed or disrupted by improving emotional regulation and decreasing symptoms of anxiety and depression. I work with children and teens and address developmental issues, anxiety, depression, and trauma. I also work with parent and child to repair disruptions in relationships. I work with adults, as well.

At Fairbanks Psychiatric and Neurological Clinic, we have board licensed psychiatrists, neurologists and counselors who provide evaluation and treatment of psychiatric and neurologic disorders. We use evidenced-based treatments with the client and will refer clients to other treatment resources, as needed. We collaborate on shared cases.

Emory's Center for Maternal Substance Abuse and Child Development (MSACD) fulfills several roles in Georgia by sponsoring clinical, prevention, and research programs. The Center houses the Emory Neurodevelopmental Exposures Clinic (ENEC), a multidisciplinary clinic dedicated to providing evaluation and intervention services to individuals exposed to substances in pregnancy. Mother-To-Baby Georgia is a service providing evidence-based information to women about exposures to medications and other substances during pregnancy that is also housed in the Center. In addition to this, the Center for MSACD also provides training, workshops, and other informational services concerning prenatal exposure to alcohol, nicotine, illicit drugs, and prescription drugs. Research projects funded by both the state and federal agencies continue to examine effects of prenatal exposure on development, evaluate intervention programs, and describe the clinic population using comprehensive databases. Through these efforts, the Center for MSACD continues to be a valuable resource to individuals, parents, and professionals in Georgia and the Southeast.

MAINE

FASD Maine - Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder Maine

FASD Maine is a self-funded group of family members affected by FASD, and professionals and stakeholders who support these families. Since 2019, FASD Maine has been working to prevent PAE/FASD and make services and support accessible to those affected by FASD.

What we do:

- Cooperate with other FASD organizations and government
- Work to increase awareness of FASD through outreach to families, providers, agencies, teachers, law enforcement, community stakeholders, legislators.
- Direct providers, agencies, educators, and law enforcement to FASD-informed education and training; direct caregivers and families to FASD-informed training and support, thus increasing FASD diagnostic capacity, interventions services, and prevention of PAE/FASD.
- Break down silos among stakeholders by bringing together individuals affected by FASD, their caregivers and providers, and agencies and policy makers.
- Support passage of the FASD ReSPect Act - S.2238, H.R.4151, a bipartisan bill that provides federal funding at the state level for FASD prevention and intervention, advances the research and development of well-informed public policy on FASD in order to ensure FASD-informed services for persons with FASD and their caregivers. Most importantly, the bill creates the structure for ongoing collaboration and development of well-informed public policy on FASD.
- Address the stigma associated with FASDs by educating Mainers to understand the complexities of the disability, while honoring the strengths of those impacted, promoting an inclusive accepting culture.
- Reduce the co-occurrence of childhood trauma and FASD by working to improve access to early diagnosis of FASD.
- Cooperate with other FASD organizations and government agencies in their efforts to raise awareness and provide FASD education and training.

MPF provides information, referral, one-on-one telephone support, and training to parents of children with disabilities or special health care needs and the professionals who work with these families through numerous grant-funded projects. Our services are offered at no cost to parents and are available statewide.

SPIN, funded by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, provides parents of children with disabilities training and information to ensure children are prepared to lead productive independent lives. The SPIN staff have experience as parents of children with disabilities and have access to a wide range of information. They are available to answer requests for information or to help parents find the answers to more complex problems.

Established by legislation in 1987, the mission of the Office for the Prevention of Developmental Disabilities (OPDD) is to reduce the frequency of occurrence of severe chronic mental or physical disabilities that originate during pregnancy or early childhood. This goal is pursued by many means, including:

- * Educating the public about the preventable causes of disabilities.
- * Alerting health care providers and others to new discoveries that suggest ways to reduce the risks of permanent damage to children before, during, or after birth.

- * Publicizing newly discovered causes of disability that arise from societal or environmental changes.

- * Fostering coordination among different agencies, each of which may be part of the solution to a problem.

- * Stimulating research to push forward the frontiers of biomedical knowledge.

- * Advocating for changes in social conditions that endanger children.

-A primary tool of the OPDD, in its work against FASD, is the NJ Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD) Task Force. The mission of the FASD Task Force is to provide education regarding the causal relationship between the consumption of alcohol and other substances during pregnancy and the incidence of FASD, and to promote effective, life-long interventions for individuals affected by prenatal exposure to alcohol and other substances.

Supporting Special Needs (SSN) is dedicated to improving the lives of individuals and families affected by a disability through online therapy. The special needs community encompasses a wide range of abilities and challenges and sometimes it can be difficult to cope with the issues that arise on life's journey. SSN seeks to assist those who are struggling in a positive, nonjudgmental manner through online counseling as it provides an outlet to recognize strengths, discuss challenges, and reach goals in a safe, convenient way.

New York States project is aimed at reducing the number of FASD related births by eliminating alcohol consumption by women of childbearing age and pregnant women. The New York State Office of Alcoholism & Substance Abuse Services (OASAS) plans to conduct a multi-year, statewide effort to prevent Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders (FASD) through: (1) increased outreach, identification and referral of at-risk pregnant women and women of childbearing years (2) training on FASD for health care professionals working with at-risk women; and (3) increased awareness by women of childbearing years about the dangers of alcohol consumption during pregnancy. The toll free hotline can make referrals for adults and children to alcoholism and substance abuse prevention and treatment programs across New York.

Disability Rights North Carolina is a private non profit organization. Designed by the Governor of 2007 to ensure that rights of all citizens with disabilities through the individual advocacy and system change, DRNC is part of a national system of federally mandated independent disability agencies. DRNC is completely independent of government and the disability service system in order to be free of any conflicts of interest which would undermine our capacity to advocate vigorously on behalf of the human and legal rights of people with disabilities. Disability Rights helps people across North Carolina gain access to services and opportunity through its advocacy and legal expertise. We regularly challenge systems and society to create positive change and improve the lives of people with disabilities.

Texas NeuroRehab Center works with boys and girls ages 8-17 with IQs that fall between 40-90 who may be facing a combination of complex medical, behavioral, social and learning difficulties. The primary goal of residential treatment for youth is to promote appropriate interaction and behavior to allow for discharge to a less restrictive setting. Family and friends are involved throughout the treatment process to share effective approaches and meet common goals. A versatile treatment team works to create individualized, multi-faceted strategies that guide the treatment process. It is through this approach that necessary developmental, psychosocial and independent living skills are learned.

Texas NeuroRehab Center works with boys and girls ages 8-17 with IQs that fall between 40-90. They may be facing a combination of complex medical, behavioral, social and learning difficulties. The primary goal of residential treatment for youth is to promote appropriate interaction and behavior to allow for discharge to a less restrictive setting. Family and friends are involved throughout the treatment process to share effective approaches and meet common goals. A versatile treatment team works to create individualized, multi-faceted strategies that guide the treatment process. It is through this approach that necessary developmental, psychosocial and independent living skills are learned.

Cumberland Hospital for Children and Adolescents (ages 2-22) doesn't look like a hospital because it isn't like most hospitals; it is a unique environment that offers a different approach to help children with complex needs. Children who repeatedly fail in conventional settings find new opportunities at Cumberland. We understand the unique psychological, social and behavioral challenges that often interfere with successful treatment of diabetes, chronic diseases, brain injury, neurological impairment, eating disorders, and other medical conditions. Our on-site staff of nurses, physicians and specialists addresses these issues by treating both body and mind, paralleling medical protocols with strategies to analyze and successfully modify behavior over time. Through an interdisciplinary approach we stabilize medical problems and help children develop positive behavioral coping strategies. We help families cope with their child's illnesses or injuries, enabling the child to achieve the best level of function possible at home, in school and in their community. CUMBERLAND'S SUCCESSFUL FORMULA: Pediatric and adolescent focus; Physical and emotional issues treated in tandem; Treatment of complex medical issues; Ability to manage aggressive behaviors; On-site physicians and specialists; Nursing and medical services; Creative treatment approaches; On-site Cumberland Academy; Peaceful, therapeutic setting; Practical life-skills training

Legislation in 1995 directed the Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS), Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI), the Department of Health (DOH), and the Department of Corrections (DOC) to execute an agreement to ensure the coordination of programs for individuals who have had fetal alcohol exposure and for women at high risk of having children with fetal alcohol exposure. This legislation also included the first provision in Washington State history for family advocacy groups to participate in the planning, development, delivery, and review of services that are administered or contracted by the agencies executing the agreement. The Division of Behavioral Health and Recovery (DBHR) has voluntarily served as program chair of the Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Interagency Workgroup (FASIAWG) since its inception in 1995, to ensure continued development and implementation of services.
